Base Team

The Base team consists of enthusiastic individuals looking to meet your needs and answer all your questions. To design, manufacture and install Base Leisure products the team consists of an 'in house' CAD design team, a manufacturing and installation team and a sales force to ensure products are installed where needed. Together, we can help with the design, manufacturing and project managing to ensure maximum benefit is gained from the Base product. Overall, the team has years of experience in ensuring that your Base product will suit all your requirements, be long standing and low maintenance.

The products are guaranteed to be low maintenance, however we do suggest that visual inspections are undertaken. The items to look for include:

- Checking the foundations – they should not be cracked.
- The structure should not have bent, loosened or have missing parts.
- The paintwork should be complete, with no damage or rusting.

We suggest that a specialist engineer carries out a detailed inspection every 6-12 months and record his or her findings. All this will benefit your product and ensure ongoing durability.

The Latest News...

Base are happy to announce our busiest ever year, establishing Base Leisure as one of the country's leading youth recreation equipment suppliers and manufacturers.

"Base Leisure is going from strength to strength, which is all thanks to our outstanding levels of design and technical expertise." said Sophie Cort, Project Manager, the new 'face' of Base Leisure. "We deliver first class projects, all around the country, to exact specifications - on time and on budget. We currently have many exciting developments in the pipeline, including a big project in Gloucestershire." Sophie Cort continued: "We are delighted with our commercial success this year, which has influenced our updated brochure and corporate image. Already we are confident that next year will surpass all our achievements to date. This is a very exciting time for us. Our unrivalled mix of innovative design and high quality manufacturing means we will continue to grow and succeed"

Latest Project

Winchester County Council has recently contracted Base Leisure to transform two of their recreational sites. The grounds that have been dramatically improved are King George the V Playing Field and Stanmore Recreation Ground. Base Leisure installed a Premier MUGA (multi user games area) at both sites including one of Base's very popular Trojan shelters. Nigel Devlin from Winchester County Council says "We are extremely happy with the way Base carried out both projects and are delighted with our new, very high quality and well built products.

The people who benefit from the sites, mainly teenagers, have now got a meeting place and an area that has been installed specifically to meet their needs. As the teenagers have a safe environment to meet and youngsters have an area to play in this helps the community by tackling the issue of children playing and congregating on streets. Base is very happy to be able to offer such facilities and hope that their robust and high quality products will continue to encourage teenagers and youngsters to engage in healthy activities and use their sites as communal meeting areas.

new products

Base Leisure's "shelters" are specifically designed to act as outdoor 'rest spots' and 'meeting points' for people of all ages. Whether situated in parks, schools, recreational facilities, or outside the workplace, these shelters are highly durable, vandal resistant and withstand even the most extreme weather conditions.

Designed in the boldest of colours, these 'rest' and 'meeting' areas offer an attractive and comfortable outdoor seating environment for everyone, including youths, parents, walkers, joggers, employees etc. Because of the variety, affordability and durability of our shelters, they have been successfully specified and installed all over the UK.

Create a communal meeting point:

- Undercover area
- Shade and weather protection
- Encourage individuals, particularly youths, to spend more of their time in a healthier way – socialising outdoors.
